Trust your color instinct

“Dipping the brush into the paint and seeing the result of your own work is rewarding and relaxing. Searching for peace and doing something with your hands were something we, too, thought about when putting together our 2018 Color Now color collection. The range of authentic colors was inspired by nature and the different natural elements – air and earth. The color of the year, N405 Terracotta, is all about tradition, craftsmanship and character, and it gives any space a beautiful warm glow.

Finding your own personal color palette starts from the courage to experiment. Trust your color instinct. Start with one wall and see what colors can do for you.”
